

CITATION

Dr. Premashis Kar has made outstanding contribution in clinical treatment and innovative research in the field of viral Hepatitis and other liver diseases. He has published more than 150 research papers (citations 6942, h-index 46, i10-index 147) in national and international journals. He has specifically contributed to the advancement of knowledge in the field of Viral Hepatitis during pregnancy in women. His work on Hepatitis E infection during pregnancy has led to better understanding of the specific risk factors, the extra hepatic site replication of HEV in the placenta and HEV viral load have been shown to contribute to the severity of Hepatitis infection during pregnancy. His research contribution has led him to achieve several orations, recognitions by several scientific bodies like National Academy of Medical Sciences(NAMS), Indian National Science Academy (INSA), Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR), American College of Gastroenterology, Japanese Society of Hepatology and The Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh. In view of he being an established clinician as well as his research excellence in the field of Viral Hepatitis, he is being considered for the prestigious Sun Pharma Clinical Research Award 2023.

Prof (Dr) Bhudev C. Das