Statement from the Applicant

The current award is being applied in the area of solid-state pharmaceuticals, enhancement of aqueous solubility and drug delivery. We have conducted hypothesis-based research work in pharmaceutical materials science and then translated this work to tangible practical applications. The research work under reference specifically has not been given any award in the past. American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists, in the year 2016, conferred Fellow status "as a distinguished contributor and acknowledged leader in the advancement of the pharmaceutical sciences."

The research work has been entirely carried out by me or my research group. Most of the research papers have been published by me as the corresponding author.
